2021 YEAR IN REVIEW

YEAR OF RESILIENCE

More than 100,000 gifts.

More than $80 million invested by the people we serve, for the people we serve.

One Mission: Helping People Live the Healthiest Lives Possible.

Thanks to your loyal support, 2021 was a year of resilience and triumph. Whether fueling exciting medical discoveries or breaking ground on new facilities, your partnership is changing the healthcare landscape for our families, friends, and community members. Together, we provided significant new resources for vulnerable children and adults alike, enabling larger-than-life health outcomes for our tiniest patients and promising to transform lives for generations to come.

During the past year, we at the Foundation have seen a historic groundswell of support. Thanks to you and your fellow donors, Intermountain Foundation remains financially poised to continue investing meaningfully in the care and vibrance of our communities through Intermountain Healthcare. In all, generous donors invested over $80,000,000 through 100,000+ individual financial gifts. We appreciate your presence and example within our visionary aspirations to build the nation's model health system for children and to help people live their healthiest lives possible.

Let's celebrate and illuminate the remarkable impact you've made this past year. Philanthropy literally means "the love of humanity"—your generosity demonstrates that giving speaks to, and from, the heart. I'm grateful for your love for others and your leadership for all. These groundbreaking initiatives are having a profound, generational impact on the individuals, families, and communities we serve today and as we expand to touch more lives ahead.

Together, we're gaining momentum and driving healthy outcomes. Let's take a closer look.

CHANGING LIVES

Significant milestone in the construction of the new Intermountain Primary Children's Hospital Larry H. and Gail Miller Family Campus in Lehi: Placement of the final steel beam!

The new second campus of Primary Children's Hospital is part of Intermountain Healthcare's \$500 million+ Primary Promise to create the nation's model health system for children. Through generous commitments and thought leadership, visionary community partners are fueling this multifaceted plan, creating a groundswell for a forthcoming community campaign that will invite everyone to join this historic project. Please contact us to learn more about Primary Promise, including specific details and opportunities for involvement.

"We're igniting a movement right now to better the health of all children today and for generations to come. This will be our enduring gift to the communities we serve today and beyond."

-Marc Harrison, MD, president and CEO of Intermountain Healthcare

The Healthy Kids initiative proactively addresses childhood illnesses and injuries before they occur, unleashing the potential of every child.

Healthy Kids – a comprehensive plan to help create communities that keep children healthy and safe – prompted a $10 million gift from community leader Crystal Maggelet and her family.

“We are entering a new era in pediatric health that will shape the next century of care for children served by Intermountain and Primary Children’s Hospital. These generous gifts from the community are helping us embrace this challenge, forge ahead, and achieve our vision to build the nation’s model health system for children without delay.”

-Katy Welkie, RN, MBA, CEO of Primary Children’s Hospital and vice president of Intermountain Children’s Health

Intermountain and Shriners Hospital for Children in Salt Lake City expanded a Collaborative Care Model for pediatric patients receiving specialized care.

Using the model to optimize outcomes, more pediatric patients will have ready access to a host of medical offerings at Primary Children’s Hospital, including surgical and post-op inpatient services.

Intermountain is partnering with the University of Utah to jointly develop a new transformational physician medical education program to help keep people healthy.

The first of its kind in the country, the program will train medical students to consider not only people’s immediate medical needs, but also the conditions in which they live, work, and play—which can have a significant impact on physical and mental well-being. The innovative program will train doctors to help people stay healthy and avoid potentially costly illnesses.

Primary Children’s Hospital’s new Healing Spaces for Kids with Cancer coming to Lehi.

Children with cancer and other chronic illnesses soon will benefit from treatment in an enhanced healing environment at Primary Children’s Hospital’s Miller Family Campus, thanks to a $5 million gift from The Kahlert Foundation.

Intermountain Park City Hospital will expand wellness services and preventive medicine to area residents and underserved populations.

Park City Hospital will enhance wellness services and preventive medicine, thanks to a $7.5 million gift from the Jerry A. and Kathleen A. Grundhofer Family Foundation.

Scientists behind Intermountain’s HerediGene: Population Study discovered genetic underpinnings of vertigo.

The discovery, part of the world’s largest single population DNA-mapping initiative through Intermountain, offers hope to the nearly 40 percent of Americans who will experience this condition at some point in their lives.

Intermountain broke ground on the new Saratoga Springs campus.

The new facility will include a free-standing emergency department and ambulatory surgery center to enhance care access for one of the fast-growing communities in Intermountain's extensive service area.

Primary Children's Hospital opened a new, state-of-the-art fetal care center.

The Utah Fetal Center provides a one-stop multidisciplinary approach to the care of expecting mothers whose babies require treatment for complex conditions while still in the womb.

Intermountain Primary Children's Hospital unveiled its rebuilt Newborn ICU.

As part of our dramatic blueprint to establish the nation's model health system for children, this completely renovated facility offers highly specialized intensive care for newborns in a private, spacious, high-tech environment to help infants survive and thrive.

"Christmastime makes it that much harder for a family to not all be together. The Festival of Trees is great, to know so many people are thinking about these children and thinking about these families who need so much extra support and cheer."

– Britt Bischoff, Tristan's mom

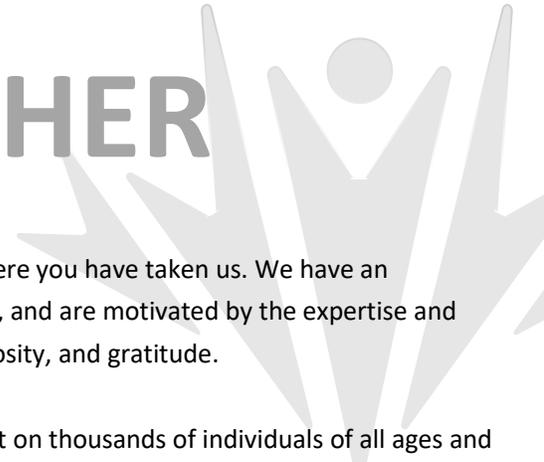

Intermountain's inspiring holiday events once again proved that we are supported by the nation's best volunteers.

Thousands of dedicated volunteers contributed to the 51st annual Festival of Trees and annual Jubilee of Trees events, benefitting Primary Children's Hospital and Intermountain Children's Health. Give-A-Thon, produced in partnership with KSL, provided another charitable opportunity to warm the hearts of our patients and families.
